BENEFITS OF VARIABLE UNIVERSAL LIFE (VUL) INSURANCE

Death Benefit Protection

Protect your family, estate, or business with a tax-free³ death benefit.

Market-Driven Investment Options

Allocate your cash value among 22 variable investment options.

Guaranteed Options

Guaranteed minimum interest crediting rates with 3 indexed accounts and 2 fixed account options.

- 1 The indexed account options do not directly participate in any stock or equity investments.
- 2 The optional Flexible Duration No-Lapse Guarantee Rider (Form series #R17FNL, S18FNL, varies based on state of policy issue) is available at policy issue for additional cost. For the rider's guarantee to remain in place, the policyowner must not request an unscheduled increase in face amount and must remain 100% allocated among any of the Fixed Options, Indexed Options, and the other Allowable Investment Options specified in the prospectus. The no-lapse guarantee depending on how you structure your policy, has a maximum duration of up to the insured's lifetime, subject to certain limits. If your net no-lapse guarantee value is zero, the no-lapse feature terminates. If the no-lapse feature terminates, additional premiums would be required to resume the no-lapse guarantee. If policy performance is such that your policy is being maintained solely by the no-lapse guarantee, your policy will not build cash value. Riders will likely incur additional charges and are subject to availability, restrictions, and limitations. When considering a rider, request a policy illustration from your life insurance producer to see the rider's impact on your policy's values.
- 3 For federal income tax purposes, life insurance death benefits generally pay income tax-free to beneficiaries pursuant to IRC Sec. 101(a)(1). In certain situations, however, life insurance death benefits may be partially or wholly taxable. Situations include, but are not limited to: the transfer of a life insurance policy for valuable consideration unless the transfer qualifies for an exception under IRC Sec. 101(a)(2)(i.e. the transfer-for-value rule); arrangements that lack an insurable interest based on state law; and an employer-owned policy unless the policy qualifies for an exception under IRC Sec. 101(j).

PASSIVELY-MANAGED FUNDS

The holdings of passively-managed funds are selected to match an established index, such as the S&P 500®, or another part of the market. This is the opposite of an actively-managed fund in which the investment securities are chosen by a portfolio manager who seeks to outperform an index. For example, an S&P 500 index fund is a passively-managed fund that mimics the S&P 500 index.

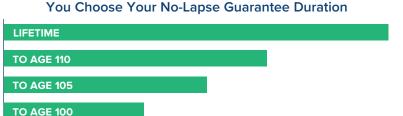

Passively-managed funds tend to have lower management expenses than funds that are actively-managed, which may appeal to investors seeking simplicity and a low-cost approach to asset allocation.

A passively managed (or index) fund attempts to track the performance of an unmanaged index of securities, which could cause the fund's return to be lower than if the fund were actively managed.

Take Command of Your Financial Future

Variable universal life insurance (VUL) helps protect your family's financial future and, if funded properly, it can be used as a potential supplemental financial resource for you or your business.

SUPPLEMENT YOUR INCOME

For high income earners, saving for retirement can be a challenge due to limitations on contributions to qualified retirement plans. You can add a tax-efficient asset to your portfolio with Pacific Admiral VUL. The policy's death benefit will provide financial protection for your policy's beneficiaries, while its market exposure can help you build a potential source of supplemental income.

THREE POTENTIAL TAX ADVANTAGES

Pacific Admiral VUL provides three potential tax advantages which can benefit you and your family or business.

- 1 Tax-free⁴ income death benefit proceeds
- 2 Tax-deferred cash value growth potential
- 3 Tax-free⁵ supplemental income potential

BUSINESS BENEFITS

If you are a business owner, how can you help your business stand out in attracting top talent? One way may be through an executive bonus arrangement, in which your business pays taxable bonuses to an executive that can be used to help pay premiums towards a life insurance policy. The executive owns the policy that may provide death benefit protection for their family and cash value growth potential that can be used for supplemental retirement income. Meanwhile, the bonused premiums are generally tax deductible as a business expense for the company.⁶

- 4 For federal income tax purposes, life insurance death benefits generally pay income tax-free to beneficiaries pursuant to IRC Sec. 101(a)(1). In certain situations, however, life insurance death benefits may be partially or wholly taxable. Situations include, but are not limited to: the transfer of a life insurance policy for valuable consideration unless the transfer qualifies for an exception under IRC Sec. 101(a)(2)(i.e. the transfer-for-value rule); arrangements that lack an insurable interest based on state law; and an employer-owned policy unless the policy qualifies for an exception under IRC Sec. 101(j).
- 5 For federal income tax purposes, tax-free income assumes, among other things: (1) withdrawals do not exceed tax basis (generally, premiums paid less prior withdrawals); (2) policy remains in force until death (any outstanding policy debt at time of lapse or surrender that exceeds the tax basis will be subject to tax); (3) withdrawals taken during the first 15 policy years do not cause, occur at the time of, or during the two years prior to, any reduction in benefits; and (4) the policy does not become a modified endowment contract. See IRC Sec. 72, 7702(f)(7)(B), 7702A. Any policy withdrawals, loans, and loan interest will reduce policy values and may reduce benefits.
- 6 The deductibility of the bonus is subject to reasonable compensation limits established by the IRC Sec. 162(a).
